Introduction

This report highlights the University of Business and Technology's (UBT) commitment to Sustainable Development Goal 15 (SDG15): Life on Land, as part of its engagement in the Times Higher Education (THE) Impact Rankings. It showcases UBT's initiatives aimed at promoting biodiversity conservation, sustainable land management, and the protection of terrestrial ecosystems.

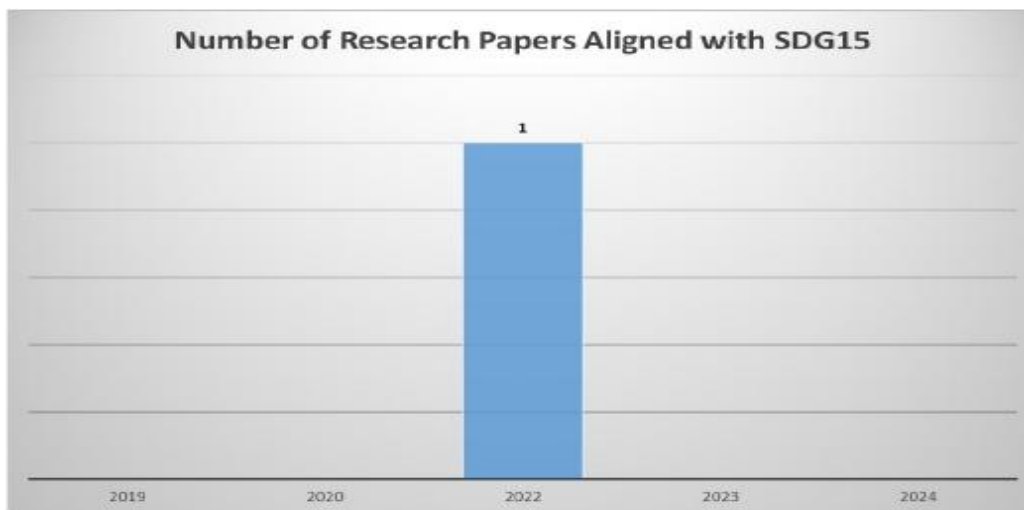

The report details the alignment of 10 academic courses with SDG15, emphasizing conservation strategies, sustainable practices, and methods to combat deforestation, desertification, and habitat loss. Additionally, it features a research project focused on biodiversity conservation, ecosystem restoration, and sustainable agriculture and forestry practices. These efforts underline UBT's role in fostering sustainable development and safeguarding life on land.

Research's Alignment with The SDG

UBT has conducted 1 research project aligned with SDG15. These research initiatives include:

- Studies on biodiversity conservation and ecosystem restoration.
- Research into the impact of human activities on terrestrial environments and solutions for mitigation.
- Collaborative efforts to develop sustainable agriculture and forestry practices.

These research projects reflect UBT's commitment to advancing sustainable practices and protecting terrestrial ecosystems.

Courses' Alignment with The SDG

The University of Business and Technology (UBT) has aligned 10 courses with SDG15. These courses focus on:

- Conservation of terrestrial ecosystems and biodiversity.
- Sustainable land management practices and their socio-economic benefits.
- Teaching strategies to combat deforestation, desertification, and habitat loss.

These courses aim to equip students with the knowledge and skills to address the challenges of preserving life on land.
